September Program

The Basic Box

Thinking inside or outside, who knows?.....it's Brett Hesser

Come join us for an evening of shop talk and standup comedy at our next meeting. All cabinets are basically a box. Brett will be showing us how he constructs his boxes and how he joins MDF before framing it with exotic hardwoods. He will be bringing lots of props and examples and he will be hosting the shop tour this month. Some of Bretts work is on display at Mingue Museum in Balboa Park. This will be a fun evening and a presentation you don't want to miss. Then follow up with a great tour at Brett's shop on the 27th of September. See the information below.

Del Cover, Program Chairman

Shop Tour

Hesser Handcrafted

On Saturday September 27, 2003, at 9am we will have a shop tour of Brett Hesser's shop located at 101 16th Street, Suite C-1 San Diego, CA 92101 (Shop phone: 619 231-9191). Ample free parking is available.

Brett studied at Leeds Design Workshops in Easthampton, Massachusetts. There he mastered his craft under the supervision of David Powell and John Tierney who taught him woodworking techniques of the 17th and 18th Centuries.

Brett's background includes building custom yacht interiors, antique reproductions, custom flooring and cabinetry, and high-end residential millwork. Brett honed his skills through his apprenticeship under Ron Montbleau of Montbleau & Associates in San Diego, CA. In 1993, Brett formed Hesser Handcrafted.

The tour will include a demonstration of Brett's 7 HP shaper. Attendees of the shop tour will be offered a special price on exotic veneered plywood. Brett has over 250,000 square feet of exotic veneer in stock.

I hope to see you there!

Andy Rae is a furniture designer, craftsman, teacher, and author of two videos and countless articles for various publications, including American Woodworker and Fine Woodworking magazines. Andy apprenticed with George Nakashima and Frank Klausz then went on to become a Senior Editor for American Woodworker Magazine for six years. He is author of Furniture and Cabinet Construction published by Taunton Press last year (Part of the three book series of which Gary Rogowski's tome we provided at the seminar last year). He authored Choosing and Using Hand Tools in 2002. In 1990 he received a Fellowship grant from the New Jersey Council for the Arts and today is a leading designer and furniture maker on the East Coast. Andy is currently working on a book about rustic furniture making, gathering inspiration from his surroundings in the wild and wooded Smoky Mountains of western North Carolina.

From the President...

The fall seminar is quickly approaching. If you haven't signed up you better hurry. The price has increased but this is still the best deal you will find anywhere. The book and catered barbecue are worth the price by themselves. The costs of two-hour seminars at the various woodworking shows are more than we are charging for a complete weekend. Plus the extras never found at the "professional" seminars, like the book, catered breakfast, lunch and snacks and sodas at the breaks. Not to mention the comfortable seating and video close-ups provided by monitors spread throughout the auditorium. The association is providing this at cost. But we need the attendance to break even. Sign up now and don't miss this great event.

If you have a computer you should sign up for the SDFWA EMAIL mailing list. This is a service for members where we can send out a special notice or reminder that can't wait for the newsletter. It is a good way to make sure you have the latest scoop on what's happening. It is easy to join and you won't get "spammed" by signing up. Bill Kohr has a new sign up procedure that makes it easier to register. Look for Bill's procedure in the newsletter.

Our newsletter is also posted on the web site at www.SDFWA.org. However, this is a public site and we have to limit what we can post. We cannot include sale flyers, discount information and special discount coupons from our sponsors. We can only include these offers in the hard copy mailed to members each month.

Time has come for us to nominate candidates for 2004 board of directors. Bob Stevenson and Ron Rossi will be the nominating committee this year. Nominations are open between the September and November meetings. Nominations are closed at the November meeting during which elections are held. Besides the elected board, there are many opportunities to get involved in the various committees. This organization can only be as good as the members make it. Take a look at all the different committees listed in the newsletter. If you have an interest in helping in any way contact us. We have a lot of great volunteers but can always use more help. This is a chance to be part of the largest and most active woodworking organization in the world! Amateur or professional alike there is opportunity for all. It is a good way to meet and get to know your fellow woodworkers. Contact Bob or Ron if you have someone to nominate or if you are interested in serving on the board or a committee of this fine organization.

This month's meeting will feature returning speaker, Bret Hesser, local artisan and well-known furniture maker. Bret is always entertaining and informative. He is also hosting this month's shop tour on the Saturday following the meeting. Don't miss this one.

Don't forget to bring your latest work to the brag table. See you at the seminar and the meeting.

Ed Gladney, President

September 2003 Membership Report

Our membership now numbers 1571, 1302 (81.7%) renewals from 2002 and 269 new members. There are 589 spouses with member cards. Death has claimed five members that we know of. Opting for getting their newsletters from our website rather than by US Mail are 272 members. Not all of these have sent an email with their name to HarrySDFWA@aol.com to receive personal notice when the next newsletter is posted on our website, www.sdfwa.org.

Members who change their mailing address should notify us; Postal Service forwarding is provided only for first-class mail. The undeliverable newsletters, 35 this month, are returned to us with $0.60 Postage Due for each. Of course, this is cheaper than spending about $0.89 to provide each newsletter, but, meanwhile the members do not get their newsletters until we get the correct addresses.

In recent months we've been notified by three members that they did not receive their membership cards although they've received our newsletters. The cards were mailed but not delivered, for whatever reason. If you have any problems or questions concerning membership, please contact me at lenwener@cox.net or (619)222-5521 or by mail to SDFWA, P.O. Box 82323, San Diego, CA 92138-2323.

Please contact me if you can provide any items or information that I might use.

Getting to Know the Directors and Committee Heads of SDFWA

Featured in this issue, The head of Refreshments, Harry Feucht

Harry's interest in woodworking started at the young age of seven or eight while watching his father build things around the house. During that same time period Harry's father was taking adult education classes in woodworking and took Harry to class with him. Throughout these formative years you could find young Harry building model ships and planes as a precursor of things to come in future.

Harry had a couple of influential shop teachers that helped formulate his love for woodworking. One being Mr. Warick, prior to the seventh grade and his seventh and eight-grade shop teacher Mr. Shay. Harry's most memorable project in his shop classes was a lead casting of Lincoln's head and attaching it to a walnut plank. There were no woodworking classes in Harry's agenda while he attended high school.

After high school Harry joined the Navy in the middle of WWII and after serving two years was discharged.

Taking advantage of the educational benefits available to veterans Harry attended Buffalo State Collage in New York State, graduating with a BA degree in Industrial Arts. Upon obtaining a job, Harry taught seventh and eight grade general shop, until the school where he worked, opened a wood shop and then he took on the responsibility and job of teaching the love of wood and woodworking to young students.

While serving the community as a teacher, Harry still had the desire to serve to his country. He joined The National Guard as a Second Lieutenant, Medical Service Officer, eventually working his way up the ranks, retiring as a Major. In 1983 Harry retired from The National Guard and teaching.

With free time on his hands, Harry did remodeling, built toys and furniture.

Harry lived in the San Francisco Bay area and belonged to a local woodworking association. When he relocated to San Diego, he sought out the SDFWA and joined in November of 1985.

In 1986 he participated in the setup and helped run the Design in Wood Show. He has worked every show since then. Harry currently is assistant coordinator of the Design in Wood Show. His responsibilities include scheduling and coordination of the staff, timekeeping, opening every day and insuring that the day-to-day operations run smoothly.

In 1988 Harry became the committee head of the Refreshment Committee. Harry has used his managerial talents as well as donating his time over many years to run the committee and bring us all of the goodies that we see at the meetings, such as, coffee, juice and the ever-popular oatmeal cookies. Harry is also responsible for the refreshments at the shop tours, coffee and donuts at the Spring bus trip, coffee, donuts, snacks and lunches at the Fall seminar and for the gourmet lunches during the setup of the Design in Wood Show. Harry's motto is "A well fed woodworker is a happy woodworker".

When not providing refreshments, Harry spends his days at Bill Collins shop helping out on various projects. Bill's shop is noted for making toys and furniture for the SDFWA Pro Bono program. Harry occasionally gets time to work on his own projects. When asked what was his most memorable piece of woodworking, he sited two, the last armchair for a dinning room table set that he made for his daughter and a cherry kitchen table.

Harry is never too busy to answer any woodworking questions ask of him and shares his vast knowledge freely.

Keep up the good work Harry you are appreciated by the membership.
